Greetings from MM School

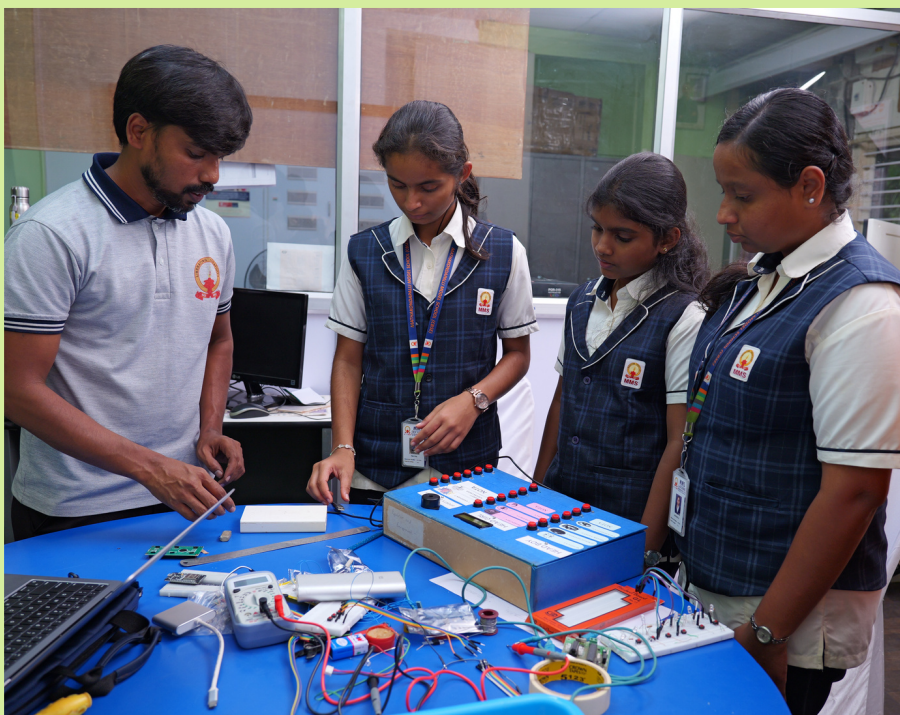

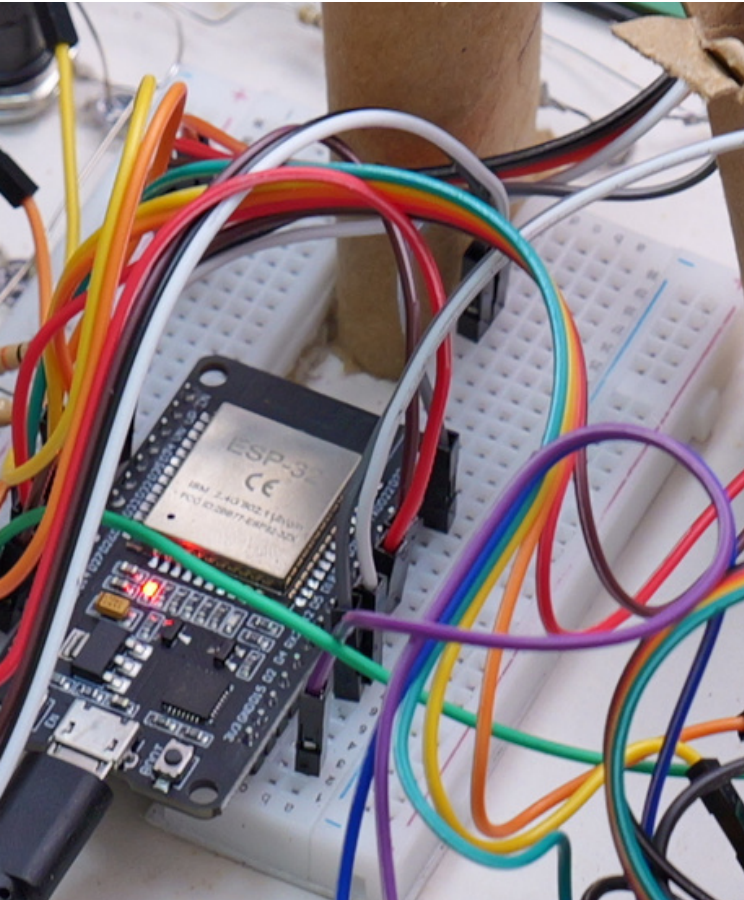

At Mathakondapalli Model School, learning extends far beyond textbooks. This year, our Student Leadership Election 2026 has evolved into a remarkable interdisciplinary learning journey, providing students with an authentic experience of India's democratic process.

Inspired by the framework of the Election Commission of India, students from Grades 6 to 12 participated in every stage of the electoral process—from nominations, scrutiny, campaigning, and voting to counting and the declaration of results.

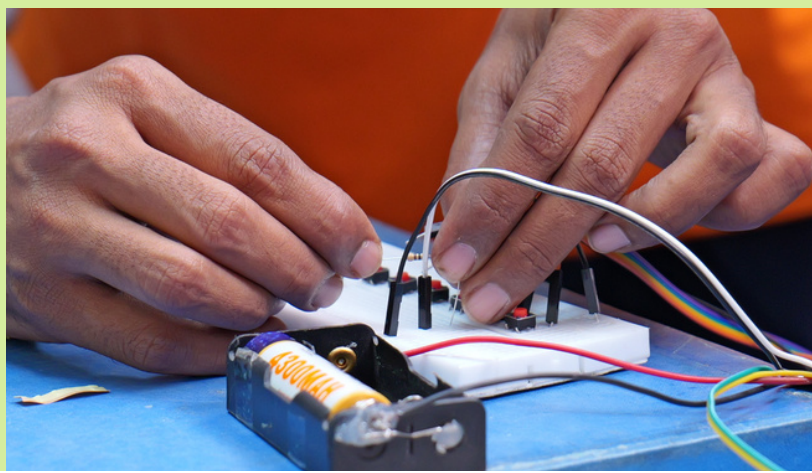

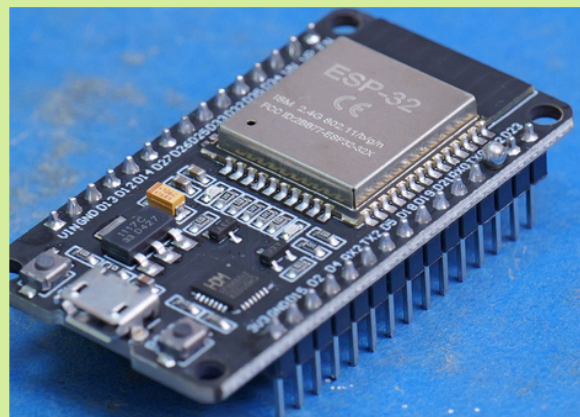

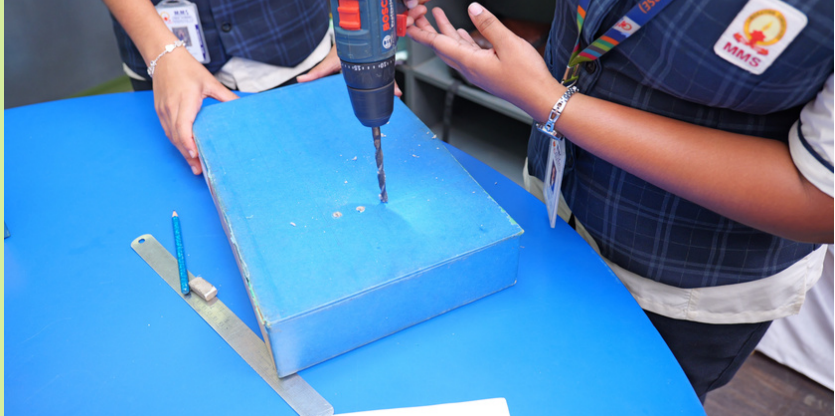

One of the most significant milestones of this year's election is the development of a student-designed Electronic Voting Machine (EVM). Instead of using a commercially available system, students researched, designed, programmed, assembled, and rigorously tested a functional EVM tailored for the school's election process. This project brought together concepts from Science, Computer Science, Mathematics, Design, and Social Science, demonstrating how knowledge from multiple disciplines converges to solve a real-world challenge.

The election campaign itself became an authentic platform for developing communication and leadership skills. Student candidates prepared manifestos, presented their vision to peers, answered thoughtful questions, and engaged in respectful dialogue. Through these experiences, they strengthened public speaking, critical thinking, ethical decision-making, and responsible leadership while learning to communicate ideas with confidence and clarity.

More than selecting student leaders, this initiative nurtures responsible citizens who understand that democracy is built on participation, fairness, accountability, and trust. It exemplifies MM School's commitment to child-centric, experiential, interdisciplinary, and project-based learning, where students actively construct knowledge by engaging with authentic experiences.

Theme Installation & Student Leadership

Leading with Purpose, Serving with Integrity. The new academic year at Mathakondapalli Model School commenced with the installation of the annual school theme, "Purpose Beyond Progress," accompanied by the investiture of the Head Boy, Head Girl, Sports Secretary, and Class Representatives.

The ceremony served as a reminder that true education extends beyond achievement. While progress reflects growth, purpose gives that growth meaning. This year's theme encourages every student to pursue excellence with responsibility, integrity, and a commitment to making a positive impact on others.

As the student leaders received their badges, they accepted not only positions of responsibility but also the privilege of serving as role models within the school community. Their leadership journey begins with a commitment to uphold the values of respect, accountability, teamwork, and service.

The installation of the class representatives further strengthened the school's culture of shared leadership, ensuring that every classroom is represented by students who will foster collaboration, responsibility, and positive engagement among their peers.

The ceremony was graced by Chief Guest Ms. Lakshmi Mahalingam, Former Principal of MM School and renowned educationist, whose inspiring address encouraged students to lead with purpose, humility, and unwavering commitment to their values. The event was also honoured by the presence of Mr. M. Meru, Secretary, MM School, and Mr. Joseph Jayaraj M., Principal, who reaffirmed the school's vision of nurturing responsible leaders who make a meaningful difference in society.

The ceremony concluded with an inspiring message, encouraging every student to embrace the year ahead with purpose, character, and a spirit of service living the belief that meaningful leadership is measured not merely by progress achieved, but by the positive difference made in the lives of others.

It is an honour to serve as the Head Boy of MM School. Leadership is not about position but about responsibility, integrity, and service. I look forward to working alongside my fellow students and teachers to foster a culture of respect, collaboration, and excellence, living this year's theme, 'Purpose Beyond Progress.'

ELECTION commissioner

As a Social Studies teacher, I have always taught my students about democracy, elections, and the responsibilities of citizenship. We moved beyond the pages of the textbook and transformed these concepts into a living experience. Watching our students participate in every stage of the electoral process from filing nominations and presenting their manifestos to casting informed votes has been truly inspiring. They learnt that democracy is not merely about electing leaders; it is about responsibility, fairness, respect, and informed decision-making.

What makes this journey even more meaningful is the way it brought together learning from multiple disciplines. Students experienced civics through participation, science through the development of the Electronic Voting Machine, language through communication and public speaking, mathematics through logical processes, and technology through innovation. This is education in its truest sense where knowledge is applied to solve real-world challenges.

Every student, whether a candidate, a voter, or a member of the election team, became an active participant in this learning journey. As educators, our greatest achievement is not simply conducting an election, but creating an environment where students gain the confidence to lead, the wisdom to make informed choices, and the values to become responsible citizens. That is the true success of this project.
